

Edwar Al-Kharrat

Author and Critic

Cairo

Born in 1926 in Alexandria; passed away in 2015 in Cairo.
Studied Law at the University of Cairo

FELLOWSHIP

West-Eastern Divan-Fellow

PROJECT

"West-Eastern Divan"

The "West-Eastern Divan" is a project promoting an understanding of Middle Eastern literatures in Germany and vice versa. During an initial period of three years, an opportunity will be given to writers from Arab countries, Iran, and Turkey and from Germany to meet so that they can acquaint themselves not only with one another, but also with their respective environments. They will travel to each other's countries, give joint readings, and write about literature and the world of their counterparts, each in his or her own language.

The Wissenschaftskolleg zu Berlin invites writers as guests for a period of 4 to 6 weeks to support the project in the framework of its Working Group Modernity and Islam in cooperation with the Berliner Festspiele, the Haus der Kulturen der Welt, and the Goethe Institute Inter Nationes. The project and the following writers are supported by the Kulturstiftung des Bundes (Federal Cultural Foundation of Germany).

Recommended Reading

- al-Charrat, Edward. Safranerde. Roman aus Ägypten, translated by Hartmut Fähndrich. Basel: Lenos-Verlag, 1990.
- . Die Steine des Bobello: eine Kindheit in Ägypten, translated by Hartmut Fähndrich and Edward Badeen. Basel: Lenos, 2000.
- . Rama and the Dragon, translated by Ferial Ghazoul and John Verlenden. Cairo and New York: American University in Cairo Press, 2002.